

Profile

Bengal Industries manufactures stainless steel corrugated hoses, stainless steel wire braid and hose-assemblies at their state of the art facility in Faridabad, near New Delhi in India.

The ISO-9001:2000 accredited company, was established in 1978, has grown to become one of the major producers of stainless steel corrugated flexible hoses in India. The company is professionally managed by a dedicated and motivated team of professionals.

Only hose manufacturer in India to receive certification. This is from DNV, Norway for design, manufacture and testing of stainless steel corrugated flexible hose assemblies under Pressure Equipment Directive of European Council 97/23/EC.

Supplying quality products continuously over three decades to over 35 countries worldwide by following a simple philosophy of continuous improvement in all spheres of business activity has now become a tradition. This has benefited the company substantially in attaining the status of priority supplier for its products to all customers in India as well as overseas.

By starting the production of Flexible Exhaust Connectors (Flex pipes / couplings) for vehicle exhaust systems, Bengal Industries has now spread its manufacturing operations into the Automotive Component Industry. A brand new facility has been put up to ensure best quality production of these components.

A belief in offering just a little extra combined with a zero defect product quality is a tradition at Bengal Industries.

Pioneers